FOREWORD

THIS index to volumes 14 through 20 of the Industrial and Labor Relations Review has been compiled to make the contents of the Review accessible to those interested in the field of industrial and labor relations. With this publication, volumes 1 through 20 of the Review are cumulatively indexed.*

All of the articles, communications, documents, and book reviews published from October 1960 through July 1967 are covered in the four parts of this index. Following each entry is the volume number (in italics), pages, month, and year of publication. Multiple entries have been made for articles, communications, and documents in the "Index to Subjects" section and by author in the "Index to Authors" section. Documents have also been indexed by title in the "Documents" section. Book reviews have been indexed by author only in the "Book Reviews" section. Recent Publications and Research Notes, which appear in each issue of the Review, were not indexed because of their topical nature. These sections are, however, listed in the annual indexes to each volume.

The major feature of this cumulative index is the index to subject matter. The scheme of subject matter classification employed in this part of the index is an adaptation of A Standard List of Subject Headings in Industrial Relations, second edition, prepared by the Sub-Committee on Subject Headings, Committee of University Industrial Relations Librarians, and published by the Industrial Relations Section, Princeton University, 1963. The list is kept up to date by annual revision. Under each subject, the title entries are in alphabetical rather than chronological order.

The editors wish to express their appreciation to Grace Horton, librarian and bibliographer, for arranging all the items by subject and compiling the copy for all seven volumes. Alice Krause assisted in compiling the items and, along with Faith Emsley, typed the final manuscript.

ROBERT H. FERGUSON
Editor

*Copies of the cumulative index to volumes 1 through 13 are available for fifty cents from the Industrial and Labor Relations Review, Cornell University, Ithaca, New York, 14850.
